

Working together to deliver success

Collaborative working and strong partnerships are at the heart of the TOHETI programme. Meaningful engagement with our stakeholders is essential to ensure the long-term success and viability of this ambitious programme of works – which not only aims to change how we use imaging in care pathways across primary and secondary care, but to transform the way we work.

“By looking cohesively at a patients’ journey across different care pathways, TOHETI aims to work across all our stakeholder groups; clinicians, imaging staff, GPs, nurses, patients and patient groups, commissioners and other healthcare staff to co-design and implement changes which will deliver the greatest patient benefit. We want these changes to be owned and led by those working on the frontline to ensure TOHETI’s long-term success and viability.”
